No passes, fumbles, but plenty of cheers

Although the National Football League season doesn't start officially until September, the Bears held a tryout camp Saturday at Lake Shore Park, 808 N. Lake Shore Dr. Instead of searching for a linebacker or a kicker, the objective was to find the 28 regulars and 5 to 10 alternates for the 1978 Honey Bears, the Bears' cheerleaders. Some of the applicants (above) await their chance to dance, be interviewed, or take a personality test. While some waited, others (left and below) went through some routines for Corinne Nierman, Bears' public relations aide, and Ted Haracz public relations director. The 189 candidates will be notified this week by mail on who made the squad.
